12:14:46 From Cindy Simeti to Everyone:
I was actually contemplating opening a Discord server for my library, especially for stuff like this. Have other libraries been successful with their Discord? Any tips for newbies setting up a server?

12:14:50 From Carlos Vicenty to Everyone:
My FFXIV queues are usually no more than in the 30s compared to the 3-5k when the expansion dropped

12:15:10 From Tori Story to Everyone:
Cindy, I know theres at least one FB group about teen librarians using Discord that has great tips

12:15:13 From Tori Story to Everyone:
least*

12:15:18 From Monica Stratton to Everyone:
We have Discord gaming for teens at my library - started up during the pandemic and teens like it so much we have continued offering virtual programming on Discord

12:15:27 From Matt Matkowski to Everyone:
What are your FF14 job mains? I tend to keep going back to RDM..

12:15:27 From Norman Lezama to Everyone:
I wish we had our own Video game/computer café within the library!

12:15:29 From Barb Galvan to Everyone:
I'm thinking about trying coffee and dominoes for our senior citizens.

12:15:33 From Lori Campbell to Everyone:
Discord is where all the gamers hang out these days.

12:15:36 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:
The Teen Librarians Using Discord is more on the Discord server now.

12:15:42 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:
@cindy simeti, we have a Discord in our library that we specifically use for TTRPGs and other nerdy/pop culture stuff.

12:15:46 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:
And it's for adults.

12:15:50 From Cindy Simeti to Everyone:
Thank you Tori! I'll see if I can find it and check it out!

12:15:52 From Celene Thomas to Everyone:
@Cindy We have a discord and it worked really well during COVID. It still gets some traffic even though we've been refocused on in person programs

12:15:54 From Scott Casper to Everyone:

Not all the gamers. I won't be caught dead on DIsord. Bleah!

12:15:58 From Kathleen Uy to Everyone:

My library system does not allow us to use Discord unfortunately.

12:16:09 From Storm Carman to Everyone:

My library system has Discord for Teens

12:16:15 From Teresa Pacheco to Everyone:

Tami, and Barb – I'm very glad to see that my family and I are not the only ones who like playing live, face to face with family and friends. It really keeps us all together, encourages conversation, and is just our favorite thing to do!

12:16:33 From cindy christani to Everyone:

Discord is amazing for gaming!

12:16:39 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:

12:18:23 From Shanna Moore to Everyone:

Thanks Meagan!

12:18:24 From Barb Galvan to Everyone:

Thanks, Meagan!

12:18:25 From Cindy Simeti to Everyone:

Thanks everyone for the tips! I'm about to get started with adult programming so I definitely want to cater more programs to that middle adult group that's post-college but not seniors, parents etc (lol aka me)

12:18:31 From James Todd to Everyone:

We've been using our 3D printer to print miniatures for teens that they can paint and then use in D&D sessions.

12:18:33 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:

Struggling to get an adult services Discord for our system, an unofficial one was made and then shut down before so now it's tough to get one approved :'(

12:18:46 From Cindy Simeti to Everyone:

but engaging seniors with tabletop is also something I want to see in my library

12:18:55 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:

@sarah, has anyone given you a reason why the discord couldn't/didn't work?

12:19:41 From Haven Jock to Everyone:

there are some security issues

12:19:58 From Haven Jock to Everyone:

with discord, ive been going around with IT at my library about it too

12:20:00 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:

staff at one branch made it without going through community services and the system was then unprepared when patrons asked about it. then all the mods couldn't support it anymore and nobody stepped up to replace

12:20:04 From Meagan Kellermann to Everyone:

Woot woot volunteers are life!

12:20:13 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:

it's such a great tool tho

12:20:16 From Michelle Goodridge to Host and Panelists:

Volunteers ARE life 😊

12:20:35 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:

Volunteers ARE life 😊

12:20:54 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:

We keep our Discord locked, and you have to request access/be approved. We also have multiple staff as moderators, and we've locked some of the features on some of the channels to prevent things being uploaded.

12:21:06 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:

Volunteers definitely add great value. But also volunteering gives youth valuable resume building skills for college and later employment.

12:21:40 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:

We also have a posted policy and expectation of behavior. So far, it's been okay. We've only had to caution one or two people about their Discord handles and ask them to change them. We've developed a tight knit community on our Discord.

12:22:35 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:

Censor Bot's useful.

12:22:38 From Dana Petersen to Everyone:

Cindy, do you have difficulty with statuses? When I used to moderate other discord servers some wouldn't moderate it while others were super picky and it was such a hard balance

12:23:19 From Andrea Barrantes to Everyone:

Mysterium is so fun!

12:23:20 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:

So far, no. We do have a relatively small community. Just one library branch and maybe 120 people in our Discord.

12:24:06 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:

12:24:48 From David Basora to Everyone:

Board Game Arena ftw!

12:24:50 From Kerisa Shorthouse to Everyone:

Has anyone looked into partnering with someone to offer childcare for adult-only programs? A lot of times, I find that my adult-only programs suffer because parents feel like they can't be involved, but when I go more all-ages, it's seen as really being for children or teens.

12:24:51 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:

We are experimenting with BGA...hoping that takes off. :-)

12:24:52 From Haven Jock to Everyone:

Yes to Betrayal!

jigsaw puzzles have been popular, too

12:25:37 From Tori Story to Everyone:

Kerisa, have you thought about offering a children's program at the same time as the adult game program? (Gotta have the space so if that's limiting it might not work =/ )

12:25:45 From John Campbell to Everyone:

There's also Cards against Humanity Family edition and I saw a thing that they'll send libraries a free copy, but I haven't tried to get one yet.

12:27:19 From Tori Story to Everyone:
(I'm terrible at lying to I always dreaded it, but the teens loved it lol)

12:27:22 From Sam Beringer to Everyone:
Werewolf is great! Especially with how easy it is to learn and it can be done virtually

12:27:23 From Matt Bodenhamer to Everyone:
When we started our board game collection we also started a staff game night that has been running about 4 years now (with about a year and a half hiatus)

12:27:26 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:
ET on Atari!?! Ha-ha!

12:27:27 From Ryan Pfeil to Host and Panelists:
Just got one of those mini Sega Genesis consoles last year. Inexpensive and so many games on there.

12:27:28 From Sarah Carbone to Everyone:
Bang! is super fun as well

12:27:32 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:
Nintendo glove only works on old tvs unfortunately

I remember playing Zelda on the 8-bit during my college semester break. I would close my eyes and see the game!

12:28:03 From Justin Sanchez to Everyone:

12:28:31 From Barb Galvan to Everyone:
I was obsessed with Zelda

12:28:36 From Teresa Pacheco to Everyone:
Matt - staff board game night! Oh my god, what fun. I'm actually retired now, but would so love to do that and wish my libraries had offered that when I was actively working.

12:29:01 From Amber Combs to Everyone:
That would be so much fun, @Teresa!

12:29:02 From Kate Hughes to Everyone:

Board games that are popular with very young and older are classics dominos, checkers, chess – old fashioned maybe, but popular with our people -- and chess is always used by teens

12:29:03 From Storm Carman to Everyone:

I still have two original Super Nintendo games that I have no idea what to do with. Starfox and Donkey Kong.

12:29:10 From Eric Young to Everyone:

Great question Justin. Would love to know the answer as well.

12:29:14 From Kristen Seikaly to Everyone:

If anyone is looking for free retro games patrons can play on a computer, there's a lot at https://archive.org/details/softwarelibrary\_msdos\_games

12:29:23 From Tiffany Grimm to Everyone:

It's amazing what I remember from original Mario brothers. sounds fun!

12:29:36 From Ryan Pfeil to Everyone:

My 7-year-old has been playing Street Fighter II nonstop with me on our Sega Genesis Mini. She loves it. I'm still surprised at how much she got into it.

12:29:41 From Suzette Spencer to Everyone:

Lol.

12:29:44 From Barb Galvan to Everyone:

My brother has our original Atari and Nintendo systems. His kids use it.

12:29:48 From Cindy Simeti to Everyone:

SFII is such a classic!

12:30:01 From Scott Casper to Everyone:

Justin Sanchez, post your question in the Q&A box so it gets addressed.

12:30:02 From Kelly Reed to Everyone:

Decimate the n00bs!

12:30:13 From Timothy Stewart to Everyone:

There are several good board games on the switch too. Pandemic, Carcassonne, Talisman, and others

12:30:14 From Julie Edwards to Host and Panelists:

I briefly muted Matt – we're getting some clicking feedback from you when Michelle is talking

12:30:24 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:

We did VR Armchair Travel for seniors pre-COVID, and I just scheduled the return of this program for August!

12:30:30 From Kathleen Uy to Everyone:

My husband has his original Atari on display in our home. He's quite proud of it.

12:30:45 From Rollin Cluff to Host and Panelists:

Virtual reality is great and its easy to partner with museums now. a few really cool historic based stories/ games are out!

12:30:45 From Barb Galvan to Everyone:

We are looking at VR for our library, but we were focused on younger patrons. That would be great for our seniors.

12:30:50 From Bonnie Cobb to Everyone:

We started VR at senior facilities right before the pandemic hit. Can't wait to do it again.

12:30:55 From Matthew J. Rohweder to Host and Panelists:

I introduced my niece to Super Mario 2 and she's obsessed with it now

12:31:16 From Ryan Pfeil to Everyone:

@ Timothy Stewart There's a phenomenal app version of Terraforming Mars that's really fun and in depth.

12:31:19 From Sara White to Everyone:

I work at the State Library and we are running a grant right now for libraries to create VR360 experiences for patrons!

12:31:22 From Kelli Cunningham to Everyone:

One thing to mention about seniors and VR-- I worked at a nursing home before I started at the library and we had a few issues with balance/dizziness and VR. Just use your best judgement.

12:31:33 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:

Google Cardboard is a cheap way to start if you have some ipods or smartphones.

12:31:44 From Tori Story to Everyone:

If your library doesn't have budget/space for VR equipment, some state libraries may have kits libraries can borrow; I know when I worked in KY we borrowed a like classroom set of VR for stuff like this.

12:31:51 From Julie Edwards to Janice Butcher, Host and Panelists:

Hi Janice - I see your hand is raised. Do you have a question?

12:32:07 From Charlotte Niteman to Everyone:

Have others done this Senior VR? If so how was your attendance?

12:32:31 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:

Yes, how many VR goggles did you have for your event?

12:32:47 From Eric Young to Everyone:

Recommendations for experiences for seniors in VR? I imagine something like beat saber may be too much for a beginner? Also, any experiences with hardware? Oculus quest? Google cardboard?

12:32:50 From Shanna Moore to Everyone:

we have 2 and it works well, one staff member operating each one

12:32:51 From Dana Petersen to Everyone:

(How do ya'll keep your VR sets clean other than wiping them down)

12:32:57 From Lelia Dykes to Everyone:

I would really love to have a boardgame day or something at our university library

12:33:01 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:

Tori where did you borrow it? I'm with LFPL and would love to know who to ask, was it Frankfort? Our regionals w makerspaces may have them but just in case...

12:33:18 From Lelia Dykes to Everyone:

one of staff will be hosting a D&D one shot this fall for students, so that's exciting

12:33:19 From Louise Cheli to Host and Panelists:
This is very interesting and I am enjoying it. Thank you! I do want to say that the keyboard clicking is a bit distracting.

12:33:20 From Anna Doyle to Everyone:
3D art, exploration programs are good for seniors.

12:33:21 From Julie Edwards to Everyone:
Matt and Michelle's book is here: <https://www.abc-clio.com/free/librarians-guide-to-games-and-gamers/>

12:33:28 From Sara White to Everyone:
One of my fave thing is having teens design games for their peers -- I've had teens design interactive murder mysteries in the library for other teens to do! Or have teens design an escape room for younger kids or adults!

12:33:33 From Elliot Witt to Everyone:
Seniors really liked the National Geographic VR experience (Machu Picchu) at a recent event at our library!

12:33:38 From Haven Jock to Everyone:
we're doing an intro to D&D this month and i'm so excited!

12:33:50 From Shanna Moore to Everyone:
Just requested to purchase the book our staff development collection!

12:33:59 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:
We have two Quest headsets available at each program, drop-in open house style. Pre-COVID attendance was steady but not overwhelming (no one had to wait more than 10 minutes or so for their turn). We use alcohol-free sanitizing wipes on the headsets (not the lenses).

12:34:00 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:
Me too!

12:34:04 From Darian LaTocha to Everyone:
we had a VR flight simulator at the air museum I worked at. we kept a barfbag on hand for any emergencies, some people did get motion sickness. :(

12:34:04 From Mary Lubbers to Everyone:
Weekly D&D at our library is easily our most successful youth/teen program since we opened up post COVID

12:34:10 From Tori Story to Everyone:
Sarah, I believe it was through KLA! Similar to borrowing book club kits from them I think!

12:34:36 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:
Thanks Danielle...2 Quests.

12:34:40 From Kathleen Uy to Everyone:
I count myself as lucky to be allowed to do one DnD a month virtually for my library system. I always have a wait list.

12:34:51 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:
So good to know, thx Tori!

12:34:54 From Clayre Benzadon to Everyone:
Candyland!

12:34:55 From Kelly Reed to Everyone:
The only game I hate more than Monopoly is Diplomacy. :D

12:34:56 From Tori Story to Everyone:

I was at Campbell County PL when we borrowed it, it was 2019/early 2020 ish.

12:34:59 From Tori Story to Everyone:

No problem!

12:35:26 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Fail Game Day - Very creative! Thanks!

12:35:36 From Lelia Dykes to Everyone:

I'm also trying to incorporate D&D elements into one of our library instructions sessions this year

12:35:54 From Scott Casper to Everyone:

Combat + Mall Madness

12:36:26 From Matt McClelland to Everyone:

I started my monthly D&D game after seeing how popular the kids and teens D&D programs were, and it was so well attended that I had to start a second one.

12:36:40 From Isaac AA to Everyone:

It's Mall Madness for me followed by the 100 pieces that's required to be assembled for Mouse Trap!

12:36:46 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:

We just purchased the newer Quest 2s but haven't actually used them in a program yet, just staff learning and preparing. The Google Wander app was the most popular traveling app pre-COVID.

12:37:05 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Game Jams - Cool, too! Thanks, Michelle!

12:37:21 From Julie Edwards to Everyone:

I'll be sending the recording, slides, and chat transcript out in a few days!

12:37:26 From Lauriane Mehrer to Everyone:

do you run a D &D game with the same group and it on going so shorter session and the character always switch out

12:37:30 From Matt Matkowski to Everyone:

Hello there

12:37:37 From Heidi Schulz-vendrella to Everyone:

HELLO THERE!

12:37:39 From Larry Maynard to Everyone:

Goodwill Outlet Worlds in Colorado are a good place to get used games or pieces for those game creations programs (dice, meeples)

12:37:43 From Storm Carman to Everyone:

My coworker did an Intro to DnD program for staff of our system who wanted to learn so they could possibly do a program at their branch (we are a 19 branch system)

12:37:48 From Kathleen Uy to Everyone:

So what kind of guidance is there for game jams? I am still confused how to do it

12:37:55 From Kelli Cunningham to Everyone:

What are the logistics of the actual mystery solving?

12:38:08 From Lelia Dykes to Everyone:

I've seen a TikTok of a teacher incorporating live action
Among Us for his history class, it was amazing

12:38:20 From Susan Waldon to Everyone:

Thanks Julie! I will need the recording. I just managed to get here!

12:38:22 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:

our intro to d&d is all oneshots bc it's accessible for new players and experienced ones tend to try out different classes/builds, haven't tried an ongoing yet

12:38:24 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:

All of these programs are explained in the book OR if we have time we can answer more questions 😊

12:38:43 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

I appreciate the thoughtfulness of these programs/games and approaches to them, Matthew, that you and Michelle are presenting! Thank you!

12:38:50 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:

Thanks Julie! You can also save the CC Live Transcript now, but it will make more sense accompanied by the slides.

12:38:55 From Larissa Root to Everyone:

what's the name of the book?

12:39:05 From Scott Casper to Everyone:

Lauriane, I've been at libraries where we've had to do both. One-shot sessions mainly when attendance was spotty, and a regular campaign when attendance was good. It depends on your audience.

12:39:17 From Matt McClelland to Everyone:

It is usually the same group with occasional patrons dropping or joining. I open registrations in 4 month chunks so that they have to reregister if they want to continue playing.

12:39:20 From Melinda Kidd to Everyone:

Thank you Julie.

12:39:26 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Matthew, that is FUN!

12:39:27 From Timothy Stewart to Everyone:

At my previous library system made a big deal with May the fourth be with you. With Cosplay, promoting our recording station, displays, and games.

12:39:28 From Kelly Reed to Everyone:

Once upon a Time is great!

12:39:36 From Lauriane Mehrer to Everyone:

thank you scott

12:39:39 From Katie Nazarian to Everyone:

Game Night has been a hit at our library. Simple, easy to learn games are the most popular.

12:39:41 From Mary Lubbers to Everyone:

For our D&D program we usually do drop in games (unconnected 1 shots) but have done mini campaigns about 5-6 weeks with the same kids each week that have also been very successful. Did a sign up for that one

12:39:42 From Kristie Hill to Everyone:

I love Fiasco as a great guided RPG for new game players

12:39:42 From Gina Wiebe to Everyone:

Dixit would also be great for a program like that

12:39:44 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:
Prompts...quite intriguing!

12:39:44 From Kerisa Shorthouse to Everyone:
Lauriane, that's how we do it. We (Adults & Teens) will start a campaign and play that game until the quest is finished unless there's a massive shift in players. The DM does have to get a little creative when it comes to introducing new characters, especially late game.

12:39:47 From Sarah Evans to Everyone:
Timothy that sounds amazing

12:39:50 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:
Bring Your Own Book is a fun game to play at a library :)

12:39:52 From Andrea Barrantes to Everyone:
Paranoia is also a fun Role playing game to play

12:40:08 From Katie Nazarian to Everyone:
We do a Jenga tournament with prizes - gets everyone on their feet and cheering

12:40:21 From Lauriane Mehrer to Everyone:
thank you Kerisa

12:40:25 From Haven Jock to Everyone:
Twine games are so amazing

12:40:34 From Arianna Jones to Everyone:
Twine is so fun to work with!!!

12:40:38 From Tori Story to Everyone:
I made a game with Twine during my MLIS program, it was quick and easy to pick up the basics! People make some amazing stuff with it!

12:40:44 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:
Oh, that sounds super cool!

12:40:47 From Nicole Gauvreau to Everyone:
Twine is also super fun for makign escape rooms

12:40:47 From Jaclyn Gomez to Everyone:
Pick a Path books :D

12:40:54 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:
Choose Your Own Adventure! I always die! Even in the Jane Austen one!

12:41:04 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:
I incorporated Twine in to a homebrew escape room scenario at my last library

12:41:32 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Gale Courses, too, perhaps.

12:41:35 From Ryan Pfeil to Everyone:

We're doing a live action, life-sized pirate-themed board game that's very Choose Your Own Adventure-inspired. <https://jcls.libcal.com/event/9073486>

12:41:45 From Lauriane Mehrer to Everyone:

i actually went to collage for video game and design and used unreal so much, before my library days.

12:41:48 From Andrew DeNicola to Everyone:

OER has a few too

12:41:52 From Wei Ling Goh to Host and Panelists:

Hi, just a small suggestion: could we not collapse ESL learners into the newcomers category? Newcomers to Canada can be very diverse and many speak English fluently. There are other residents that speak English as a 2nd language but may be 1st-gen immigrants, and so do not fall under the "Newcomers" category :)

12:41:57 From Kerisa Shorthouse to Everyone:

Kelli Cunningham, when I did the live-action clue, I was using a puzzle kit that basically turned it into a mini murder mystery.

12:42:16 From Andrea Barrantes to Everyone:

Unlock is fun as an escape room

12:42:16 From C. Newton to Everyone:

Life-sized board games--chess ala Harry Potter, Candy Land

12:42:18 From Mary Lubbers to Everyone:

Breakout boxes as a mini escape room

12:42:29 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:

Our library has life size board games that we have made for PA days!

12:42:29 From Haley Shaw to Everyone:

we are turning a meeting room into an escape room for summer reading

12:42:31 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:

Breakout EDU is a good source

12:42:31 From Juan Farias to Everyone:

thinking about doing video game tournaments for games like Mario Kart/Mortal Kombat/Super smash bros

12:42:55 From Sharon Blank to Everyone:

Hi, got distracted by library chaos, but... what was the Fail Game Day?

12:43:23 From Rhea Fawcett to Everyone:

I think I remember something about Candyland being turned into a game about nutrition?

12:43:28 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:

:D made a tabletop-esque budgeting game for teams that was fun!

12:43:55 From christopher Look to Everyone:

@sharon, It was the idea that you take a game that's kinda of spent, like candyland. You talk about the game, and what makes it a

"fail" and then you work on changing the game to make it more engaging and fun

12:44:04 From Jason Gonzales to Everyone:

Fail Game involved getting library customers to take a game (ie. Monopoly, Candyland) and repurpose it or design new rules to re-invent the game and make in different. They said they turned Monopoly into a D&D game.

12:44:25 From John Campbell to Everyone:

@Cassandra That sounds neat. Do you have info about it online anywhere?

12:44:28 From Tori Story to Everyone:

The ways my eyes widened when you said 200 o.o

12:44:30 From Martha Olver to Everyone:

put teams together

12:44:54 From Storm Carman to Everyone:

200 is os many!

12:44:54 From Juan Farias to Everyone:

has anyone done a video game tournament program before?

12:44:56 From Heidi Schulz-vendrella to Everyone:

🤖200 ppl?

12:45:13 From Kristy Leighton to Everyone:

200 is fantastic :)

12:45:25 From Alison Allen to Everyone:

Just fyi you can't call a program "Choose Your Own Adventure". It's trademarked and our library system got an email from the company asking us not to use the term!

12:45:53 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:

@john my email's cassandra@guntersvillelibrary.org, send me an email and I'll share what I've got!

12:46:02 From Thomas Vose to Everyone:

Are you familiar with the ALA's Games and Gaming Round Table?

12:46:02 From Lily Keightley to Everyone:

can you put link into chat?

12:46:07 From Eric Young to Everyone:

Oh wow I had no idea! Thanks Alison.

12:46:13 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Congratulations!

12:46:30 From Scott Casper to Everyone:

There was a time when TSR used to send cease and desist letters to libraries for having D&D programs.

12:46:32 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

On your first book! No wonder you are SO knowledgeable!

12:46:33 From Lily Keightley to Everyone:

Thanks! Sounds like an amazing book!

12:46:39 From Kathleen Uy to Everyone:

thanks.

12:46:40 From Louise Cheli to Everyone:

Both of you!

12:46:43 From Scott Casper to Everyone:
For you people who remember what TSR was.

12:46:48 From Shayne Plunk to Everyone:
There are a couple of great free resources for libraries where companies will send items to you for free. The Warhammer School Club will send free minis for the game Warhammer, brushes, and paints for the minis. You can also contact Wizards of the Coast and they will send free decks and teaching kits for the TCG Magic the Gathering.

12:46:49 From Jennifer Giovanetti to Everyone:
Thank you!

12:47:03 From Janice Butcher to Host and Panelists:
Thank you

12:47:03 From Karin Kraeutler to Everyone:
Totally amazing stuff out there...Thank you!!

12:47:04 From Jane Roguski to Everyone:
I take Seniors tech classes and I did one Kahoot at one session, now we have a dedicated Quiz hour for seniors though I have moved to Quizzizz. They are hooked

12:47:34 From Victor Dixon to Host and Panelists:
Is "Curse of Strahd" still popular?

12:47:44 From Jennifer Buck to Host and Panelists:
Thank you. This seems very interesting!

12:48:32 From Lelia Dykes to Everyone:
I use Kahoot for some of my library instruction sessions!

12:48:59 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:
Factile is great for Jeopardy style nights.

12:49:06 From Tori Story to Everyone:
I've had luck contacting publishers for replacing missing pieces

12:49:07 From James Todd to Everyone:
Wizards of the Coast runs out of those promotional materials really fast though.

12:49:43 From Carlos Vicenty to Everyone:
I was just kidnapped by other responsibilities for the last 30 minutes so I missed practically the whole presentation :( Looking forward to reviewing the recording and slides.

12:50:03 From Martha Olver to Everyone:
you'll get the chat, too

12:50:10 From Julie Edwards to Everyone:
So sorry to hear Carlos - I will send the slides, recording, and chat transcript in a few days!

12:50:15 From Anna Doyle to Everyone:

There are a lot of free print-and-play board games that people have made available.

12:50:17 From Victor Dixon to Host and Panelists:

What is the cat's name?

12:50:21 From Susan Waldon to Everyone:

You are not alone Carlos. I have missed quite a bit too.

12:50:40 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:

That's Rory, she's helping me snipe people from my truck in Fortnite

12:50:50 From David Basora to Everyone:

Thanks Julie! Keeping up with the chat has not been possible

12:51:03 From Kate Enge to Everyone:

Your library's Friends group (if you have one) could also be helpful for purchasing games.

12:51:09 From Carlos Vicenty to Everyone:

I will definitely scour through the chat logs also for everyone's tips and links. Thanks to everyone who has contributed from their own experiences also!

12:51:19 From Cathy Wood to Everyone:

If you're working with board games, Steve Jackson Games gave me a great donation for our library's circulating collection. I think I did have to kick them a bit of money for shipping.

12:51:20 From Cassandra Brindle to Everyone:

Teen Advisory Board fundraisers.

12:51:35 From Heather Lowe to Everyone:

I will look forward to the slides, recording and chat as well, I had to leave to go move a scaffold for the artist painting a mural at our library. Very interesting input that has got my mind flowing with all sorts of ideas. Great stuff, y'all.

12:51:56 From Storm Carman to Everyone:

@Michelle Goodridge It's interesting to see Switch Fornite players. I started on the PS4 and now I'm strictly PC.

12:52:25 From Tori Story to Everyone:

We're working with our FLGS as part of a pilot program from GAMA that connects libraries and publishers. As a part of it, our FLGS has agreed to let people purchase games through them at a discount that will get donated to our library

12:52:30 From Amber Combs to Everyone:

Meeples for Peeples gives games to non-profits! I got a HUGE box by applying on their website!

Website: <https://meeplesforpeeples.com/>

12:52:31 From Arianna Gomez to Everyone:

Blooket! A great way for trivia nights, review nights for citizenship classes, or homework help! Different game modes and works similar to Kahoot but more competitive and my highschoolers loved it when I taught ESL

12:52:43 From Kate Sherrill to Everyone:

Establish a wish list where people could purchase and donate the games that you need.

12:52:56 From Martha Olver to Everyone:

that would be useful

"Respectful people" sounds like a Canadian thing.

12:53:22 From Heidi Schulz-vendrella to Everyone:

12:53:23 From Linnea Fonnest to Everyone:
have multiple copies of a board/card game to resupply

12:53:23 From David Basora to Everyone:
@ Michelle, must be due to Canadian kindness and politeness,
lol

12:53:25 From Elyse Malnekoff to Everyone:
Local game store manager told me get a good scale, note the weight of games before and after check-outs - difference in weight means something is missing then you have to thoroughly piece count

12:53:39 From Michelle Goodridge to Everyone:
I am loving all these Canadian kindness comments 😊

12:53:43 From David Craig to Everyone:
Anyone in the US, check out Alliance Game Distributors.
They're a wholesaler who does accept library accounts and you can get 40-50% off.

12:53:50 From Cindy Butor to Everyone:
We circulate like... 20 games or so? And, honestly, we haven't lost much if anything. And we're from the US.

12:54:03 From Carlos Vicenty to Everyone:
Thank you so much, David Craig. I'll note that down!

12:54:26 From Cathy Wood to Everyone:
I've heard the weighing process can be easily thrown off - your scale may not be precise enough to notice the difference of a single card or two, and if it is precise enough, the weight may be affected by things like difference in humidity from one day to the next

12:54:31 From Charlotte Niteman to Everyone:
We don't circulate them, but for the games in our kids area, we scanned the instructions in so when they get lost we can print them. Also laminated instructions, and mostly purchased games that losing a piece would not ruin it. But trying to keep them away from toddlers is appearing to be an issue.

WINGSPAN!

12:55:23 From Anna Doyle to Everyone:
Social-emotional practice.

12:55:24 From Danielle Acton to Everyone:
I would not recommend the weighing option. Can confirm that humidity throws off your baseline.

12:55:32 From Ryan Pfeil to Everyone:
Wingspan is incredible. There's a game called Ark Nova that just came out recently that's sort of in the same vein for teaching about wildlife.

12:55:53 From Ryan Pfeil to Everyone:
(Conservation, etc.)

12:56:08 From Cathy Wood to Everyone:
I work in a public library and haven't yet had anyone ask for justification on why we have a board game collection, but I do have a binder with information on the games and tie each into at least one of IMLS' 21st century skills: <https://www.ims.gov/issues/national-initiatives/museums-libraries-and-21st-century-skills/definitions> (just in case!)

12:56:54 From Kelly Reed to Everyone:
I often brought games into my ESL classrooms. Moving that into a university library is a great idea.
